

BIOGRAPHY

Bobbie Thompson

Software Developer, Munro & Associates, Inc.

Bobbie has been a software developer with Munro & Associates for little over a year. During his time at Munro & Associates, he has been proud to help in the development of the Design Profit software and its support systems. Bobbie has fixed bugs, provided customer technical support, and helped test new software changes.

Prior to working with Design Profit, Bobbie attended the University of Phoenix where he obtained an Associate's degree in Computer Science; he is currently a full time student looking forward to gaining his Bachelors of Science. Bobbie gained an array of knowledge and skills in areas such as web development, project management, and application development. He worked with common languages & technologies such as Java, Visual Basic, C++, and C#.

In addition to technical skills, Bobbie has gained leadership & speaking skills in previous jobs as a team leader and manager. He has managed over thirty people on a team and this has given him insight into how larger groups of individuals work, and think together.
